

presents:

Fundamentalism:

Race, Truth, and Democracy in a Global World

March 2–3, 2006 • 9 a.m. – 3:45 p.m.

Saxbe Auditorium, Drinko Hall

Moritz College of Law

The Kirwan Institute is pleased to present a two-day panel discussion on fundamentalism.

The six-panel conference will explore fundamentalism from a Christian, Islamic, and Judaic perspective.

March 2 Panel Discussions

- 9:30 a.m. What Is Fundamentalism?
- 11:15 a.m. Political Fundamentalism
- 12:45 p.m. Lunch
- 2 p.m. Religious Fundamentalism and the Market

March 3 Panel Discussions

- 9:30 a.m. Gender and Fundamentalism
- 11:15 a.m. Religious Pluralism
- 12:45 p.m. Lunch
- 2 p.m. Social Justice and
Fundamentalism

Co-sponsored by:

Office of the President, Office of Academic Affairs, Mershon Center, College of the Arts and Sciences, Frank Hale Black Cultural Center, Office of Minority Affairs, Moritz College of Law, Metropolitan Area Church Council, Council on American-Islamic Relations, College of Humanities, and Multi-Cultural Center.

This event is free and open to the public.